Soulful Design

If you want a space that makes you fall head over heels in love with every square inch of your home, then look no further than May Designs.

Designing since 2005, Amy May believes the design process should be soulful, and she works tirelessly to help her clients reconnect to their homes. When you work with her, you'll easily find your way to all the beauty of design, but you'll also discover her innate and powerful ability to understand the emotional power of your environment.

"Design is more than what is pretty and beautiful," she says. "It's also about the ways emotion, feeling and function merge within a space. Environment affects our happiness and well-being, and I dig deep to understand how clients want to feel in their spaces."

Whether she's working with clients on new construction or whole house renovations, she also shows up with a strong construction background and uses this to advocate for her clients throughout the entire process. "I'm a solutions-based designer," she says. "Quick thinking, mission-minded and goal-focused: it's just all a part of who I am and how I help create timeless and deeply meaningful spaces."
